

While on a visit to Leavenworth Washington, Ludwig the iconic Bavarian lion fell in love with the majestic beauty and took to the hills in hermitage. Raised by intrepid cougars of the Cascades, Lou established a fondness for adventure. He found settlement atop the town's perch and his generous spirit guided him to construct a park where he could share his fearless passion for play with the people of the region he loves. "Super Lou" as he is now known can occasionally be spied tucked under a boulder or speeding down the rails of the Tumwater Twister.
